There are several different things in this message and I cannot tell exactly what I have to hand in, what is extra, or whether the work needs to be finished for Friday or Sunday.

Year 10 English - An Inspector Calls: Responsibility

Please finish the essay plan we started today and write your first analytical paragraph on how Priestley presents responsibility in An Inspector Calls before our next lesson.

You should also revise the quotations we looked at in class and add any useful ones to your quotation bank.

Upload your work to the assignment area by Sunday evening so I can look at it before next week.

If you want to push yourself towards the higher grades, you can write a second paragraph looking at how Mr Birling's attitude to responsibility contrasts with the Inspector's.

Anyone who did not finish the responsibility grid in class needs to complete that first.

Bring your essay plan and a printed copy of your paragraph to the next lesson if possible. If you cannot print at home, upload it and we can sort that in school.

Your full An Inspector Calls essay will be completed later this half term, so this homework is intended to help you build towards that.
